Skin Care

スキンケア

Skincare Series using natural water from the cave in Kamaishi, Iwate Prefecture.

Irritation on the skin is caused by many factors such as environment, stress and tiredness, so MUJI considers the importance of skincare that is gentle to the skin for everyone.

The most particular about is the water. The silky natural water pumped out from the cave in Kamaishi, Iwate Prefecture, is extremely soft with almost the same pH readings as human tears, hence able to soak rapidly into the skin.

A lineup of 4 kinds of series, to suit individual skin types or problems, is available. They bring the original skin condition by taking care with your hands and making time to be in touch with the skin.

MUJI Skincare, selectable from 4 different series to suit individual skin type or basic care.

Visit the birthplace of natural water

※ Except for mild cleansing and face wash.

The main ingredient for skincare is 'Water'. Skincare products of MUJI[®] are made with natural water pumped out from the cave in Kamaishi, Iwate Prefecture.

A drop of water that was polished to perfection over a long period of time. A soft and supple feeling on the lips.

Hidden in thick layers of mist is Mount Omine. It is almost as though you are wrapped in moist atmosphere.

Mount Omine, located at the border of Tono and Kamaishi in Iwate Prefecture, is a former iron mine. After abandonment, the rain and snowmelt that fell on the forest spread across the mountain where beech and oak trees grew, slowly start to seep through the piles of limestone, magnetite and granite. The trolley takes passengers deep in the mountain about 3km through the tunnel of the mine and about 600m from the top of the mountain. Quietly but surely, water started to flow out from between the bedrock. A pure, soft water that contains little minerals is easily absorbed in the skin.

The water that is collected from the bedrock is contained in a liquid container after going through the process of filtration and thermal disinfection.

The water arrives at the factory. Without letting outside air in, it is carried to the stirred tank.

We added a moist substance (Lipidure/Polyquaternium-51) that we made using the cell membrane of the skin to point us to the right direction.

At times during the stirring, we take samples and analyse. We accept pHs similar to that of a skin - a slightly acidic pH.

We use the machine on the right to pump clean compressed air into the lotion to air clean it then use the filling machine on the left to package the lotion.

The finished lotion is transported into a hygienic filling room to be packaged. While in this filling room, where around 1500 bottles are packaged in an hour and 10000 in a day, a lot of the tasks are fully automated. There are staff members who aid the machines and check the quality of the lotion. Every hour, our staff members conduct quality checks to ensure that the product is being made without defects.

The finished lotion. After passing the final inspection, it goes on an adventure to various MUJI stores around the globe.

(Above) The process of installing the small edges of the make-up tools whereby each edge is grinded one by one by hand. The workmanship is important in ensuring the sharpness of the tools.

The Steel Scissors made by about 30 processes and taking more than 3 months.

The steel plate of the prototype of the scissors removed from the press, proceeds to sharpening and polishing through the process to shape nicely, called trimming. After cleaning, removing the dust and quenching, it tempers to improve the hardness and stickiness. After that, the handwork is intently executed. The end of it which is thinner than the baby finger, is struck to wind to make the good angle. Sharpening the 2 edges at the same time makes them consistently beautiful until the end of the edges. The last step of the process after about 30 processes, is the quality inspection. Checking both its appearances and sharpness are executed. The cloth is rapidly cut into strips while making the delightful snipping sound.
